The following email from Mel Karmazin was distributed to SIRIUS employees, consultants and on-air talent on February 19, 2007.

THE BEST RADIO ON RADIO™

To: SIRIUS Employees, Consultants and On-Air Talent

Today is a very exciting day for SIRIUS and XM. Earlier today both companies announced that we have entered into a definitive agreement to combine in a merger of equals to form the nation's premier audio entertainment provider. The press release we issued earlier is attached for your convenience. I will also host a Town Hall meeting at SIRIUS' NYC headquarters on Tuesday, February 20 at 4:00 PM ET. Further details and a dial-in number for those of you at different locations will be provided in a separate communication.

This combination is the next logical step in the evolution of audio entertainment. Not only will the transaction allow satellite radio to compete better in the rapidly evolving audio entertainment industry, but it will provide our current, as well as our future subscribers with an enhanced programming lineup and improved technology — things they undoubtedly crave.

SIRIUS and XM are a natural fit — strategically and technologically. The combined company would have approximately 14 million subscribers today. Together, we will have the opportunity to offer consumers a broader selection of content, a stronger platform for future innovation within the audio entertainment industry and the potential to deliver significantly more value to our loyal shareholders. Furthermore, each of our companies has a strong commitment to providing listeners the broadest range of music, news, sports and entertainment and, of course, the best customer service possible.

I will become the CEO of the combined company, Gary Parsons, current chairman of XM, will become the chairman and additional management appointments will be announced prior to closing. You should also know that both companies are working diligently to develop the marketing and branding for the combined company, as well as to determine its corporate name and headquarters location. We look forward to updating you as appropriate over the coming months.

As you may expect, this transaction is subject to regulatory review. As we move through the approval process, we will make every effort to update you on our progress. You should know that both companies believe we will receive the necessary regulatory approvals to complete the transaction.

Until the transaction is closed, which we expect to be by the end of 2007, the companies will continue to operate independently. This means that it is business as usual at SIRIUS. As everyone knows, however, “business as usual” here is still a pretty exciting venture to be a part of. Through your dedication, we continue to be the fastest growing satellite radio provider, adding 2.7 million new subscribers in 2006 alone.

Today’s announcement is likely to receive increased media and investor attention, and therefore it is particularly important that we speak with one voice. If you receive any calls from interested parties or reporters, please forward them to Paul Blalock in Investor Relations at 212-584-5174 or Patrick Reilly in Corporate Communications at 212-901-6646.

I want to thank all of you for your hard work and many accomplishments. I am thrilled to be taking this exciting step with all of you. Ultimately, this transaction is about choice. A combined SIRIUS and XM gives listeners more choices — more of what they want when they want it. Together, we will deliver the Very Best Radio on Radio.

Sincerely,

Mel Karmazin
